NEW UNIVERSITY OF PHOENIX (UOP) DRIVING DIRECTIONS:

General Orientation: The nearest major “cross streets” for the new University of Phoenix (UOP) campus are the I-10 Freeway at the “Broadway Curve.” The training site is just east of I-10 and several blocks south of Broadway Road. (This much you can Google, but don’t try to Google the exact address—it will be misleading and confusing. Use one of the sets of directions below.)

A. Coming from the west via I-10, take exit 153 (the AZ-143/48th St/Broadway exit) and turn right (south) on 48th St. Continue south on 48th Street until you get to Broadway Road. Turn left (east) on Broadway and continue east until you come to the stoplight at 55th St (just under a mile). Turn right (south) on 55th and follow it around until you come to the roundabout at the intersection of 55th and Fountainhead Parkway. Using the roundabout, continue south on 55th to the second building on your right—the beige, multi-story UOP parking structure (Building 2520). Enter and park as far to the west inside the structure as possible (this will save time later). Once you’ve parked, proceed west to the 10-story University of Phoenix Building (Building 1625) across the footbridge. In the lobby, ask for directions to the AGTS classroom if it is not clear from the marquee.

B. Coming up from the south via I-10, take exit 153-B (52nd St /Broadway exit). When you get to Broadway Road, turn right (east) and continue east until you come to the stoplight at 55th St (about half a mile). Turn right (south) on 55th and follow it around until you come to the roundabout at the intersection of 55th and Fountainhead Parkway. Using the roundabout, continue south on 55th to the second building on your right—the beige, multi-story UOP parking structure (Building 2520).
